From the Verge:

> YouTube is facing a lawsuit from a group of channel owners who say their rights were violated by the platform's recent moderation actions against QAnon accounts. The users, many of whom boasted hundreds of thousands of followers on the platform, are seeking a temporary restraining order to restore their accounts.

Conservatives getting censored is a good thing for dissident, as it will make their views less available to the public. I am not and never have been a free speech absolutist. If the elites, who are my enemies, take out my other enemies, conservatives, I'm fine with it. That being said, I do not support tech giants being able to censor. I'm just saying if the accidental effect of censorship is my enemies lose their reach, so be it.

Buzzfeed recently released enormous amounts of inside information on Patriot Front, which to my knowledge is loosely affiliated with the Daily Stormer, Andrew Anglin's site. I don't know much about this group nor Anglin, other than that whole side of White nationalism is barely distinguishable from the stereotypical Hollywood representation of dissidents, such as in American History X.

The White race is not going to get anywhere by creating a glorified boys club with guns and masks that goosesteps down the street, getting into brawls with Antifa. Whites need to build extended family networks, legal defense organizations, political parties, slush funds for our people to use if they lose their job and serious intellectual work that appeals to folks already on the fence. We will not win in the streets, but we can win in the courts and in the battle of ideas.
